

ROMANIA TRANSFORMED

Winter 2019

Mon - Fri // 10:30 am - 11:20 am

Lecturers Ileana Marin & Otilia Baraboi

ROMN 420 // C LIT 371A // CHID 498B 5 credits / VLPA, I&S

Situated at the frontier between the East and West for centuries, Romania has an exceptional position in the world. Speakers of a Romance language surrounded by Slavs and Huns, Romanians have absorbed many influences and created their own unique identity.

In this course, students will explore artistic trends and ideologies in Romanian literature and culture, and investigate contributions to Dadaism, Surrealism, and the Theatre of the Absurd, as well as resistance to Communism and Women's roles in forging a Post-Soviet Romania.

SLAVIC LANGUAGES AND LITERATURES

UNIVERSITY of WASHINGTON
College of Arts & Sciences