

SLAVIC 426/CHID 498B/HONORS 211C
and ENGL 297 I
Ways of Feeling

"It was interesting to jump into the mind of another writer and see what they were trying to get across, while holding onto my own perspective about their work to help them improve it." (An IWP student on the helpfulness of peer review in writing for his lecture course).

English 297 I, a 5-credit Interdisciplinary Writing Program (IWP) writing course, is offered with "Ways of Feeling." In the linked course, students will conference their written work for SLAVIC 426 with peers and one-on-one with the linked course instructor. Students report taking a link promotes both their improvement as writers and their success in the lecture course.

ENGL 297 I/SLN 14115, T, Th 12:30-1:50, 5 Credits - C or W

Winter 2016
Prof. Kat Dziwirek

Are there feelings that all people share independent of language, culture, and gender? We will examine the meaning and form of "emotion" words, facial expressions, cultural attitudes towards emotion and emotional behavior, as well as gender-specific emotional expressions in different languages.

SLN 19643 T, Th 2:30-4:20 5 Credits